

The Diane Rehm Show

Host and Executive Producer
Diane Rehm

Producers

Sandra Pinkard, Elizabeth Terry, Anne Adams and Nancy Robertson

Photo by Claire Flanders

Join the conversation during the Diane Rehm Show by calling 1-800-433-8850.

Listen live, weekdays from 10 a.m. to noon EST.

Listen to this week's programs or listen to past programs from our archive.

Due to the rapid growth of our online audience, you may have difficulty accessing RealAudio files.

WAMU in Washington, D.C. is working to expand our capacity. We appreciate your patience as we make this transition.

The Diane Rehm Show

Women at Work

Over the course of the "Women at Work" series, Diane talked one-on-one with women about their careers. In late 1999, Diane and her staff decided to broaden the scope of the series. The new series, beginning in January 2000, is called "On the Job" and will feature both men and women talking about their work. We hope you will enjoy it.

e-Mail

1996

Date	Topic
December 6	Tipper Gore, wife of Vice-President Al Gore, a former newspaper photographer, and author of " Picture This ", a collection of her photographs.
November 1	Deborah Cavanaugh, a self-taught painter from North Carolina.
August 28	Denice Murray of " Partners in Action ", a Chicago-based social action group.
August 2	Chief Carol Mehrling, head of the third largest police department in the nation in Montgomery County, Maryland.
July 12	Nora Pouillon, noted Washington, D.C. chef, restaurateur, and author of the cookbook " Cooking With Nora ."
June 7	Linda Frazier, a vice-president for Discovery Enterprises Worldwide.
May 10	A special show with mothers honoring motherhood.
April 5	Dr. Joyce Ladner, Professor in the School of Social Work at Howard University in Washington, D.C.
March 1	The Right Reverend Jane Holmes Dixon, Bishop Suffragans of the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, D.C.
February 2	Judith Mueller, Executive Director of the Women's Center. Her organization is a comprehensive regional resource for women and families in the Washington D.C. area.